Aviation Moves Tennessee

Tennessee's aviation system has 76 public-use airports that support a wide range of activities, from commercial airline travel to private aircraft operations. Aviation contributes approximately 9% of Tennessee's gross domestic product (GDP) and generates an estimated $53.8 billion in total economic impact across the state. To better understand how these airports support Tennessee's economy, the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) Aeronautics Division conducted an updated Aviation Economic Impact Study.

About Reelfoot Lake Airport

Serving the communities surrounding Reelfoot Lake in northwest Tennessee, Reelfoot Lake Airport (0M2) provides general aviation access within a largely rural area characterized by agricultural land, outdoor recreation, and small towns. The airport functions as a local aviation resource for recreational flying, business travel, and general aviation activity in an area where air access complements regional transportation options.

Reelfoot Lake Airport is a publicly owned, public-use general aviation facility featuring a 3,500-foot runway. This runway length supports light general aviation aircraft and recreational aviation operations, allowing the airport to accommodate local flying activity, pilot training, and short-distance travel while providing access to the surrounding region and nearby recreational destinations.

The airport serves both based and transient aircraft and provides an aviation access point for visitors traveling to the Reelfoot Lake area. Its location near one of Tennessee's most recognized outdoor recreation destinations contributes to seasonal aviation activity associated with tourism, fishing, wildlife observation, and other recreational pursuits.
