Aviation Moves Tennessee

Tennessee's aviation system has 76 public-use airports that support a wide range of activities, from commercial airline travel to private aircraft operations. Aviation contributes approximately 9% of Tennessee's gross domestic product (GDP) and generates an estimated $53.8 billion in total economic impact across the state. To better understand how these airports support Tennessee's economy, the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) Aeronautics Division conducted an updated Aviation Economic Impact Study.

About Outlaw Field

Located approximately six miles northwest of the City of Clarksville in Montgomery County, Outlaw Field (CKV), formerly known as Clarksville Regional Airport, serves a growing regional and military-influenced community in Middle Tennessee. The airport is situated in a suburban setting near major transportation corridors and in close proximity to Fort Campbell, positioning it to support civilian, military, and emergency response aviation activity.

Outlaw Field is a publicly owned, public-use general aviation airport featuring a primary runway measuring 6,000 feet, capable of accommodating a wide range of general aviation aircraft, including larger business jets and specialized aviation operations. The airport also includes a secondary crosswind runway, further enhancing operational flexibility and regional accessibility.

Several aviation-related tenants operate at the airport. Air Methods, supporting Vanderbilt LifeFlight, maintains an on-airport presence providing helicopter emergency medical transport services to Montgomery County and surrounding areas. In addition, Wings of Eagles Aviation operates on-airport, providing flight training and general aviation services that support pilot education and workforce development.

To better understand the geographic reach of Outlaw Field, the map below shows a selection of flights that operated both into and out of the airport.
