SZY Robert Sibley Airport

Aviation Moves Tennessee

Tennessee's aviation system has 76 public-use airports that support a wide range of activities, from commercial airline travel to private aircraft operations. Aviation contributes approximately 9% of Tennessee's gross domestic product (GDP) and generates an estimated $53.8 billion in total economic impact across the state. To better understand how these airports support Tennessee's economy, the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) Aeronautics Division conducted an updated Aviation Economic Impact Study.

About Robert Sibley Airport

Serving the City of Selmer and the surrounding areas of McNairy County in southwest Tennessee, Robert Sibley Airport (SZY) provides general aviation access within a largely rural area characterized by small communities, manufacturing activity, and regional business operations. The airport functions as a local aviation facility that accommodates aviation services, business travel, and general aviation operations where air transportation complements surface travel.

Robert Sibley Airport is a publicly owned, public-use general aviation airport featuring a 5,003-foot paved runway. The runway length allows the airport to accommodate a variety of general aviation aircraft, including business aircraft and those requiring maintenance or specialized services, providing flexibility for both based and visiting users while enhancing regional accessibility.

Several aviation-related businesses operate directly on-airport. U.S. Aerospace Corp maintains a presence conducting aviation-related manufacturing and repair activities that support specialized aircraft operations. In addition, A/C Services operates on-field providing aircraft maintenance services that support general aviation activity.
